

Wendy Stuart

Fashion and Fit Bio

With a background of over 20 years in the fashion industry, Wendy Stuart is an expert fit model and style consultant to the fashion world. As the standard American size 8 measurements, she actually tries on each garment she "fits" helping to develop the measurements for each piece, working with designers, product development, factory production, and focus groups, with a keen insight into exactly who the customer is, their size, age, body type, demographic, and lifestyle. Her feedback is then translated into a garment that "fits", incorporating both her keen sense of style and fabric knowledge. Working with such major companies as Eileen Fisher and Sag Harbor, and private labels for major department stores, has made her expertise very much in demand in all areas and price points in the clothing industry.

Wendy credits her eclectic background with fueling her creative eye and whether hosting fashion and beauty segments for TV and infomercials, videotaping local customs and rituals in the tribal villages she visits around the world, or learning to ride elephants, she bring her own special fascination and insight that allows her to connect with the people she meets.

She currently resides in NYC with her two legged family, as well as her Chihuahua, Cockatoo, English Angora Rabbits, and Oranda Goldfish. Of course everyone in the apartment roams free.... Except the fish.....
